How Going Paperless Created a Secure Boardroom Experience

CASE STUDY

NHC's sensitive nature of meetings demanded that they be conducted with an emphasis on information security. With prior E-Board's NHC struggled with security issues while using a board portal.

After reviewing several alternative solutions to eliminate emails and go paperless, NHC settled on Passageways' OnBoard to deliver a rich, responsive, and secure boardroom

The various committees meet about 6 times a year, and a conservative estimate of total savings across these meetings exceeds 45,000 annually

CHALLENGE

NHC's sensitive nature of meetings demanded that they be conducted with an emphasis on information security. With prior E-Boards, NHC struggled with security issues while using a board portal. The share drive they set up posed its own problems in the boardroom. They continued to print expensive and burdensome paper bound books to be circulated at meetings. Further, legal team continued to find it difficult to compile those board books and files on the share drive, making it difficult for their board members to securely review when on the go.

RESULTS

NHC board packets would average 165 pages, with 13 board members, coupled with printing, binding, and shipping costs. The various committees meet about 6 times a year, and a conservative estimate of total savings across these meetings exceeds 45,000 annually.

SOLUTION

After reviewing several alternative solutions to eliminate emails and go paperless, NHC settled on Passageways' OnBoard to deliver a rich, responsive, and secure boardroom experience. "We can just load all the material into On Board, and no longer have to worry about emailing or printing the documents."
